DJ Miss Brit Short Bio

DJ Miss Brit's sound is as diverse and unique as her client list. With a sonic aesthetic rooted in eclectic soul and hip hop she tells stories by weaving between the genre's of funk, soul, r&b, trap, electronic, hip hop, afrobeats, and more. As a former spoken word artist and media personality her voice and musical blends have been waking up audiences for nearly a decade in radio and television.

Since 2016 DJ Miss Brit has been the official DJ for celebrity parties, international institutions, and elected officials. As a sports DJ she's been the official DJ for the NFL Superbowl, MLB MN Twins, WNBA MN Lynx, USLW MN Aurora, MLS MN United, and NBA MN Timberwolves. She's a part of national DJ Coalitions MP3WaxDJs and Generation Now DJs and has been represented by multiple record labels. By night she DJ's and by day she's a doula and public service leader who advocates for family wellness across the country.

Full Bio

Brittany Wright Otero, also known as DJ Miss Brit, is a proud believer who embodies not only Proverbs 31 but Philippians 4:13, a verse that says, “I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me.” With that unshakable faith, she truly does everything her heart desires as an Emmy-nominated digital storyteller and host, writer, entrepreneur, and advocate for equity in marginalized communities. She’s a graduate of the University of Minnesota, where she studied the Sociology of Law, Criminology, and Deviance with a minor in African American Studies. She also graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, where she studied Arts and Cultural Strategies for Executive Leadership, and continues to combine artistic expression with social entrepreneurship.

Brittany Wright Otero is a proud wife and mom who is deeply passionate about supporting family wellness and sustainability. As the founder of her company, Gray Matter, Brittany created the Holistic Maternal Care framework to address Black maternal health disparities, which has been recognized by Metro Doctors Magazine, Black Mamas Matter Alliance, NBC, WCCO, Johnson & Johnson, and many more. She is also the creator of Trill Moms, a podcast and movement focused on Black maternal health.

In her formal role, Brittany serves as a Program Manager with the State of Minnesota’s Governor’s Children’s Cabinet, leading efforts for innovative healthcare solutions for families across 23 state agencies. In the community, she serves as a certified doula, healing justice coach, and DJ. She is on a mission to bring healing, joy, and mental well-being into every space, using music and movement as tools for transformation. Brittany specializes in multiple genres and modalities of music and DJs high-profile sporting events for the NFL, NBA, WNBA, and MLB. She also has a diverse clientele ranging from local nonprofits, clubs, and national corporations to former Vice President Kamala Harris. There’s not a space on earth where music and wellness aren’t needed; therefore, there’s not a space where she won’t find an opportunity to work and serve. By day, she advocates for family wellness, and by night, she fosters joy and promotes mental health through music and storytelling, creating spaces that nourish the mind, body, and spirit.
